We received to day a copy of Mr. Agustin de Vedia's monumental work on the financial history of the Argentine Republic. It would require a careful perusal of 500 pages to appreciate thoroughly the research and erudition of the author, but even without that, it is a standard work to the nation's library. It may be added that the volume, large as it is, only embraces the epoch from 1811 to 1884, leaving the remaining period for a second volume. Mr. Lajouane of Calle Peru is the editor.

According to Rosario advices it seems that the bank of Republic island is becoming daily more difficult to pass due to the strong current of the Paraná, banking up the sand against the island. The matter is already a serious one, and the bank is not promptly taking to keep the drifts, and the millions of capital invested in these works will be lost.

The Correio de la Plata devoted the whole market at the second hour by a bulletin announcing resignation of the Don Chancellor and his resignation to the Don Chancellor.

The excitement at the second ring can be imagined from the fact that the premium having jumped 10 points in the short space of the hour. The same was the case with the market for the gold of the highest bid for the line barely top of the market.

The following is a summary of operations at the second ring at the second ring:
